Believe Way Being Paved For Solving Reparations Issue

Now Deemed Certain That America Will Participate
In Conference to Bring About Settlement of Tangle, the Way Having Apparently Been Opened.

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Hopeful
that indicated acceptance by France,
Italy and Belgium of British proposals for an advisory committee of experts of Germany's capacity to pay had definitely opened a way toward solution of the reparations tangle, the British officials today awaited the further formulation of plans presumably under way at the European capitals.
Developments of the last 24 hours were said authoritatively to have been such as to make it appear as virtual certainty that America would be represented on the proposed commission of experts named with the approval of the Washington government. Just how far the European governments involved had proceeded toward a complete agreement, however, was a matter which it apparently was expected here would be clarified by some official announcement from London.
At the same time, late unofficial advices from Paris bringing out that the French appearance of the British proposals was not regarded there as conditional, inasmuch as the plan for a committee to be named by reparations commission, it was said, it is one of the British natives, give support to the participation by officials
here of a definite agreement.
The plan which the French government would accept at least appears to offer to resistance as to American participation so far as the British government position is concerned. Secretary Hughes reply to Lord Curzon communication of Oct.
13th.
While the United States, he said,
could not participate officially in the activities of the reparations commission, he had "no doubt" the secretary
added that competent American citizens would accept membership on an advisory body appointed by the commission to make recommendations.
It would be expected here, however, it was said, that not only the American members of such an advisory commission but those representing the United States government would be appointed only with the approval of their respective governments. The qualifications of the personnel of such a commission, it was pointed out,
would be a matter for consideration, and it was held that if the commissions
recommendations, are to carry a weight commensurate with the importance of the subject dealt with,
government approval of the selections
would seem an essential condition.

GRANT IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY BAIL IS DENIED

(Special to The Bee)
MARTINSVILLE, Va., Oct. 27.— John Grant, accused of shooting and killing Robert Fowles near Mountain Valley last Sunday was given a preliminary hearing before Squire Shelton this morning and was held for the next grand jury without bail.
The case was called on earlier in the day on Sunday John Grant's sons had planned with Fowles to make some liquor and the father discovering it became engaged in a fight with Fowles. In the fight Fowles was sustained a scalp wound and he went to Dr. J. E. Richardson's home to have his wound dressed. While waiting for the doctor, it was in evidence from the doctor's testimony, that Grant was in the house and was difficultly about the earlier quarrel with Buster Lawrence and the two men began fighting. They were separated and John Grant it is charged shot a man named Fowles. Fowles was shot in the body and the wound proving fatal.
Grant said that he shot because Fowles had administered a beating to his nephew.

Cash Register Robbery Cleared

Between midnight and dawn today
a cash register in the store of R. E.
and L. J. Ricketts on Third avenue was burglarized. The amount was small but at any rate a robbery was committed. C. E. Ricketts this morning found that one hundred and some odd pennies which were left in the cash register last night were missing. The proprietors were notified and began an investigation. Nothing else was found missing and the doors and windows were secure. A further investigation brought to light a situation which affords cause for a story which is a rare, making insignificant all other tales along this line.
The theft was committed by rats!
This may sound ridiculous but as circumstances disclose it is a fact. When the cash register drawer was pulled out its entire length a rat nest was found in a rear compartment. In this nest was found ninety-seven cents of the stolen money. There were three compartments in front of this recess which is a rare, making insignifi-
cant all other tales along this line.

ACKNOWLEDGE MOVEMENT IN PARIS AS LAWFUL

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Reuters Collombes correspondent relates a message from Coblenz dated Friday stating that Paul Tira-d, the French high commissioner in the Rhineland has received orders from Paris to acknowledge the lawfulness of the movement in support for the separatist
movement has become more active,
the message adds, "although it does not appear to have much chance of success."

MORE TESTIMONY IN CASE OF COAL COMPANY

(By The Associated Press.)
FORT SMITH, Ark., Oct. 27.— Further testimony denying charges of the Coronado Coal Company and nine other mine operators that the United Mine Workers of America was a party to a national conspiracy to prevent the interstate shipment of non-union mined coal and precipitated
the riots in the Harford valley field in July 1914 was offered by the prosecution today at the retrial of the $2,222,000 damage suit brought by
the operators.

TOBACCO CASES ARE NOW SET FOR NOVEMBER 3

As was predicted several days ago
the hearing on four warrants sued
out by the Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Marketing Association against the Danville Warehouse Corporation
and the Piedmont Warehouse Corporation, these charges being continued today at the retrial of the $2,222,000 damage suit brought by
the operators.
It had been planned to go into all cases which had been set for today.
Attorneys for the defendants, however, appeared and declared that they were not ready and that there had been some misunderstanding about the preliminary hearing. They asked that the cases be set for next Saturday, November 10th, by which time they declared, they would be ready. The court for the marketing organization, however, pointed out that if the cases were set for November 10th that it would be too late for the appeal to get on the docket of the next Corporation court
and objection was raised to deferring
the cases that long. Mayor Wooding
finally solved the problem by determining November 3rd as the date on which a hearing will be held.

land republic, made stronger by the approval of the Franco-Belgian authorities, is devoting its energies to

though he prefers to be called "executive commissioner." The other

lows:

terior.

terior.

Government Cost Error Explained By City Auditor

Returns From Richmond
With Data—Figures
Showed Per Capita On City Disbursements and
Not Operating Costs—
Actual Rating Is $25.39.

City Auditor Richard P. Moss returned early this morning from Richmond where he went yesterday to discuss with members of the Commission on Simplification and the state accountant the figures which were recently given publicly from Richmond bearing on the per capita cost of government and which were found to be misleading.
The auditor's mission was wholly successful for not only was the error
explained but it was possible to show
to the people of Danville that the actual per capita cost of government
in this city is $25.39 instead of $69.51
as originally given.
It was expected this morning that a meeting of the finance committee
of the council would be held to hear Mr. Moss' report, but instead an informal session was held between Col.
A. B. Carrington and Fredway
Gravelly, two members of the finance committee and the chairman, W. E.
Gardner not being present.
Mr. Moss went over the whole situation with the two members of the council and showed them that the published figures instead of representing the cost of administering the city government to the tax payers
was in reality the per capita disbursements based on the report of the city
treasurer made to the state accountant.

Booker Abides His Time To Announce

The announcement made in these columns several months ago that Marshall Booker of Halifax, would be a candidate for Fifth Congressional honor was based in growing interest and speculation when Mr.
Booker will announce himself. It is understood that Mr. Booker's continued silence on the matter does not mean that he has decided not to be a candidate, but that he is abiding his own time in reaching his formal declaration. Mr. Booker, whose speech at the last nominating convention
was followed by the throwing of support of delegates from the eastern part of the district to the Hooker forces, is understood to claim that he has an agreement with Representative Hooker that the latter would withdraw. It is also claimed that Mr. Hooker denies that any such agreement was entered into and it begins to look like a sharp political battle will be in evidence next year.

Will Investigate Conduct Of Other Oklahoma Officers

New Developments Brings Announcement From Committee That Case
Against Governor Is Only
Beginning Of Their Work
Will Probe Other Alleged
"Misconducts."

(By The Associated Press.)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct.
27.—The House investigating committee which submitted the charges of official misconduct on which trial of Governor Jack C. Walton will start next Thursday, prepared today to extend its impeachment inquiry to other state officials and developments.
Declaring that their work of the case against the governor, members of the committee said that no condition
would be "whitewashed."
The committee already has before
it a resolution requesting an investigation of the office of John A. White-hurst, president of the state board of agriculture and it is predicted by observers that the situation that exists in the office of the governor
will be the object of possible impeachment proceedings. Its next session will be held Monday.

The Senate court of impeachment
ordered Governor Walton to trial
next Thursday after the lower House yesterday had approved the last of the 22 charges which constitute the impeachment bill. These are illegal issuance of state police commissions
to numbers of irresponsible persons;
consolidation of the press; issuance
of two deficiency warrants when no occasion existed; falsifying the report
of his campaign; abuse of the pardon and parole power and receiving funds from various persons for his personal benefit and general incompetency.
All of the charges come under the general allegations of misconduct in office, moral turpitude, wilful neglect of duty and incompetency.
In setting the trial for Thursday
the Senate court allowed the executive six days
in which to answer the charges and enter his plea. If these conditions are complied with before the prescribed time has elapsed the court
said trial would begin at once.
A board of House members will act as the prosecution.

in the latter road's yards at Bristol.
Number 37 which leaves Roanoke

Perfect protection is provided from rain and wind. The lower frame of the windshield fits into a permanent rubber grommet. Moulded rubber seals every joint between the frames and posts. At the top a new weatherstrip, steel reinforced, excludes all air that might enter between the windshield and top, and side curtains button to the windshield, instead of the posts, covering the slight crack between them.

In addition to these and numerous other refinements, Buick four-wheel brakes afford a greater degree of safety on all roads.

Dim or Bright Headlights? British Club Opposes Dim

A family of five travels about in this moving home and candy store, in Germany. It is the conception of an Austrian noble, Herr Franz von Schlechtleitner, who restored to this source of income after he had lost his fortune in Austria. The home consists of a kitchen and living room downstairs and two bedrooms 'upstairs,' accessible by climbing and creeping.

Our representatives meant well when they passed a law regulating headlights.

But were they right, when they required that glaring lights be dimmed every time another motorist approached?

This apparently unimportant question returns with especial vehemence and real significance, accompanied by a new viewpoint on automobile headlights.

The new angle comes from England and is occasioned by a motion picture recently passed by the general committee of the Royal Automobile Club in that country.

The resolution is: "That this committee considers that the practice of switching off electric headlights when meeting other traffic on the open road is fraught with considerable danger and urges motorists to discontinue it."

Miss Jessie Dizer of Cincinnati, O., who has been conducting the Circulation Campaign for the Franklin Chronicle, leaves for Cincinnati today.

There you are! A complete reversal of our own idea—backed up by laws in every state—that glaring headlights are detrimental to night driving.

But there is much to be said for the English viewpoint. Members of the same general committee argue that sudden dimming of glaring headlights blinds the oncoming motorist as that he has to feel his way with dimmed headlights, find it hard to clear his own way past him on a pitch dark road.

Either way, glaring headlights or dimmed, both approaches motorists themselves at a disadvantage, and have to feel their way past each other.

There is another solution for this difficulty—one that has not yet been tried out to any extent. One inventor has already applied for a patent based on this new idea.

That is, the use of an auxiliary light at the left of the automobile, lighting up the left front wheel and the left side of the road.

Thus, when headlights are dimmed, the approaching motorist is guided by the auxiliary light of the other automobile, and can steer clear of the car.

An improvement of this form of light would be one that would throw its beams farther out to the left of the road, so that the approaching motorist may see exactly how much clearance he has.

For want of this, some sort of dimming devices are being so designed that the intensity of the glaring headlights gradually instead of suddenly. This at least allows the eye to get accustomed to the change gradually.

LIQUOR AND SPEED CLAIM ANOTHER VICTIM; NEGRO IS TOTAL WRECK; CAR IS WORSE

Fast driving and mean liquor last night at 11:30 o'clock on North Main street, just south of the Lawless Sanatorium, claimed another victim in John L. Walton, negro, Spring Garden, when he drove his Ford touring car into street car No. 69.

Walton is a total wreck and the Ford car is worse than that by several counts. Walton sustained a badly fractured leg and innumerable cuts and bruises and possible internal injuries.

Two police officers, R. A. Adams and Ira Harris, saw the accident, in fact drove right into it with Adams' Ford, which lost a fender in the melee.

Adams and Harris were out in the former's car last night and were in the vicinity of the intersection of Thomas street and North Main when Walton came tearing by in his car at a speed of forty miles an hour. His driving indicated that he was intoxicated. It is said that he was driving without lights.

The officers gave chase and watched the speeding motorist, this showing that Walton was going about 40 miles an hour. As the negro's car got within a few feet of the oncoming street car, he was seen to turn sharply to the left and the collision followed.

All four tires of the car blew out with a resounding noise at the impact, there was the hiss of escaping steam from the broken and overheated engine and the crash of broken glass.

The car was thrown back on its rear wheels, standing on end momentarily, then the shattered frame and chassis were tossed to one side, the wreck, peculiarly enough, settling back on the broken wheels. The street car came to a stop in a distance slightly more than its length.

The officers' car, which had followed the speeding negro at a distance of about 125 feet, came tearing toward the wreck. Officer Adams, driving, doing his best to stop the car. He was able to drive through the space between the street car and the wreckage of the negro's car, but lost a fender and plenty of paint in accomplishing the feat.

The negro was found unconscious huddled in the foot of the car. He was bleeding from numerous gashes about the face, head and body. The officers immediately got a passing transfer car and took the injured man to Providence hospital, where Dr. Winslow gave him attention.

Dr. Winslow stated last night that the worst injury, that he could discover was a compound comminuted fracture of the left thigh bone. There was a deep gash in the forehead and many cuts made by flying glass about the face and head. There was also a deep gash in the left arm. Internal injuries, the doctor indicated, may be discovered later.

No attempt was made last night to get the fractured limb. This will be done today. The negro was given morphine to ease his pain.

Both Adams and Harris stated last night that the smell of whiskey was strong about Walton and that they believed that he was intoxicated.

So great was the force of the impact of the Ford against the street car that the engine of the car was hurled from its seat in the chassis to the street.

The steering gear was broken off short at the floor of the car, the glass in the windshield was broken and the whole frame of the car was distorted and bent. There was hardly a whole part, of any size, in the car that was not broken or twisted.

A great dent was made in the left

DIVORCES WIFE; NEVER BATHED

(By Chicago Tribune Service) CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—George A. Arnold, an ambitious salesman who has been trying vainly for eleven years to induce his wife to take a bath, gave up today and laid the case before Superior Judge Sabath.

"Nellie and I were married Christmas Day, 1912," said Arnold, "and we lived together until 1920. While she is not a Russian, she sympathizes with the soviet in this respect, that she never took a bath in her life. Even the Russians are supposed to have two or three, one when they are born and the other when they die."

"That's enough," said the judge. "You get a divorce."

Auction Sale of Lots Successful

One of the most successful auction sales of lots ever held in Danville was put across yesterday when 23 lots of the Patton, Temple and Williamson development on Marshall street were disposed of. The highest price paid was $2250 for the lot on the corner of Watson street. The lowest price was $1350. Fully 3,000 people attended the sale, which was conducted by the Globe Auction Company, Knoxville, Tenn. H. A. Colle and Robert A. Coquille were in charge of the auction. A total of $38,180 was realized.

The sale started at 2:15 and was over at 4 o'clock. Bidding for the lots was spirited, there being no lack of customers. Real estate men who have followed sales in this city over a long period of years stated yesterday that they had never seen a better conducted sale or so many eager bidders.

Mrs. Lillian Lewis, Milton Hall, was successful in the drawing for the Ford runabout.

DANVILLE YOUTH FINDS A HOME AMONG OHIOANS

The following story relates how a neglected lad of Danville has found a home among the Ohioans. The account is reprinted from the Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch:

John Smith, from near Sardinia, sought information from Judge Waters, of the Juvenile Court, Monday, regarding James Claude White, a twelve-year-old boy who appeared in that section when he was picked up between Mt. Orab and Sardinia by Wilbur Moore, who was hauling logs.

Moore took the boy home, the lad telling him his home was in Danville, Virginia, and that he had ridden from Cincinnati to Williamsburg in a truck.

Somebody noted in a Cincinnati newspaper that a lad had escaped from a juvenile officer at the Pennsylvania railroad station and word being sent to the Juvenile Court, he was staying, and it was this that brought Mr. Smith to consult with Judge Waters relative to whether he could provide a home for him. The judge granted this request and the lad now comes to a most desirable home.

GERMAN PRESS FEARS RENOS

(By The Associated Press) BERLIN, Oct. 26.—Germany's press is in a blue funk, lest married relations in the new republic be Americanized. Liberals are on the increase and German newspapers fear the "Lassies" will run up and over the country.

Last year Berlin alone had 2,000 divorces. Loveless marriages, especially marriages which are entered into for purely financial reasons are held by most newspaper contributors to be responsible for the growing dockets in the divorce courts.

Buggs was killed when the high-powered machine he was driving crashed into an embankment on the Augusta road several miles from Augusta.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 50c.

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS

A Letter from Mrs. Ward Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Springfield, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved to me before my fourth child was born. With the first three I had been sick and weak, and had sick headaches twice a week. I couldn't keep enough food down to do me any good, and my work was left undone many a time. My sister-in-law told me to take the Vegetable Compound when I began to have the same old dreadful sickness and headaches and was worn out. Since then I have only had two headaches, had a good appetite and scarcely lost a meal. I have a fine, healthy baby girl who has never had a sick day. The nicest part is that I am healthy, too. It did me a lot of good, and if I should ever have another baby I will take your medicine at once."

Mrs. BESSIE WARD, 1027 Park Avenue, Springfield, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system, so that it will work in every respect effectually as nature intends.

War On Rats To Be Waged Here

Dr. R. W. Garnett, city health officer, has secured the aid of W. J. Wells, who will conduct an indefinite campaign against rats. Mr. Wells, an expert in this line, assumed his post this morning and began making plans to combat the rodent in Danville. It is not that the situation here was not alarming, but it is not as bad as it is in other cities. It was explained that rats are always dangerous to a community and such a campaign at least once a year in the plan of the health department. The rodents are the cause of big losses and are a menace to health. It was said Mr. Wells will be here for several weeks. He has just completed a successful campaign in Schoolfield.

His policy is to get about the war on rats by distributing barium carbonate by means of a house to house canvass with an explanation to the head of the household. Therefore this means that the citizens of Danville must co-operate to make the campaign a success. The barium carbonate is considered the most effective and satisfactory poison that can be used for killing out rats. In his visits to homes Mr. Wells will also do the baiting and give instructions.

Ex-Kaiser Makes Trip Towards German Border

(By The Associated Press.)
DOORN, Holland, Oct. 27.—Former Emperor William and Ex-Crown Prince Frederick William, accompanied by two other persons, left for the German border at 6 o'clock last evening in an automobile in direction of Arnheim, about seven miles from the German border and returned at two o'clock this morning.

They were followed by three other automobiles, according to a person well informed regarding affairs at the Chateau.

It is reported here that the ex-Crown Prince wishes to return to Germany at any cost and that he has conversations on this subject with representatives of the Dutch government.

TALKING STUDEBAKER WILL BE SEEN HERE

Danville is to have an opportunity of seeing the famous "Talking Studebaker" car which has been exhibited at several cities in the country and which recently has been on display at Richmond. The "Talking Studebaker" has been commented on wherever it has been seen and is the subject of much interest in the explanation of the vocal powers of and otherwise ordinary "big six" model. The car addresses in a natural voice those who visit it and carries on a running conversation with those who approach it. It also undertakes to answer questions. The machine will be shown at the city display room of the Wilson Meade Motor company.

CASE TAKEN TO COURT OF APPEALS INTERESTING ONE

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 26.—The circuit court of Spotsylvania county has furnished an interesting case for the consideration of the supreme court of appeals. Last year two men, George Wade and John Springer, claiming to be from Cleveland, O., were arrested on the charge of violating the prohibition laws. They had an expensive car and considerable liquor. They were taken before a magistrate, bailed for their appearance in court, putting up a cash bond, and when they were called, they failed to answer. The Commonwealth asked for forfeiture of the bond, and counsel for the men resisted, alleging that it was illegal. The case was tried in the circuit court, the decision being that the State should return the money.

It is from this ruling that the State sought an appeal, the two cases being identical in every way. The court has allowed a writ of error and supersedeas, thereby holding up the decree of the lower court for the present and until there is a review by the appellate court.

The rule provides that the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh road will pay the full switching expense of $12.50 a car provided the line haul revenue is $21.50 per car or greater.

OLDEST NURSE, 101, IS WAITING TO BECOME "MORE MATURE"

By MILTON BRONNER
ST. HELENS, Eng., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Janet Ann Newbury, 101 years young is living proof that the ruling passion in women is personal vanity.

Why? Because she fussed like a flapper when the photographer came to take her picture without giving her a chance to primp.

"The picture won't be a success," she grumbled. "Give me time to use my lipstick and my powderpuff. A shiny nose isn't any more becoming at 100 than at 20."

Mrs. Newbury lives at the Prescott Inn, near London, but she's not graying about it. She's comfortable, warm and well and says if people will let her alone she will equal the record of a grandparent who lived to be 108.

She is said to be the latest living nurse.

In Crimean War
"I nursed in the Crimean war of 1854," she said. "My husband was a sergeant major in the British army. In those days wives were allowed to follow their soldier husbands. I turned up and made myself useful by looking after the British soldiers long before the famous Florence Nightingale came out there."

She was silent a moment then looked up brightly and smiled:

"Some day, when I am a little more mature," she began, "I think I will write the story of my life. I've been everywhere. Went with my first husband to the West Indies. I left my babies in Finland and went along when he went with his regiment to Crimea. I saw my husband and I went to Canada, India, and China."

Settled Down
"All my life has been mixed up with the British army and navy and that gets you around a bit. But now I've settled down, and I have time to turn philosophic and retrospective and devote my life to literature if I want to."

"Marry again? No, I've settled down now, and I think with men so scarce I ought to retire for the younger generations."

But she hurried away when she heard the bell announcing afternoon tea and cakes.

"I don't worry about my figure any more, and I can eat all the pastry I want," she said at parting.

AGED SERVANTS WILL LIVE IN A PAPAL PALACE

ROME, Oct. 26.—The Law of Guarantees, passed by the Italian Parliament in 1871, almost immediately after Rome became the capital of Italy, regulated the relations between the papacy and the new kingdom, and assigned to the Pope, besides the palaces of the Vatican and the Lateran, the magnificent papal palace of Castel Gandolfo, exquisitely situated on the shores of the Lake of Albano. As is well known, the Pope never acknowledged the Law of Guarantees, nor could they use the great Villa of Castel Gandolfo (as it was intended that they should do) for their summer residence, as, after having summoned the Pope, they never leave the Vatican.

Pius XI has made use of the great Villa with its huge suites of apartments as an orphanage for Armenian girls, pitiful waifs and strays from the world war. The Pope has now decided to leave the villa and place most of them of good birth, educated as teachers, so they are being sent to a college at Turin to be trained for this vocation. The pontiff now intends to make the palace at Castel Gandolfo his summer residence, and place for aged bishops and priests, who are no longer able to work and need a home and comfort for their declining years. It is difficult to imagine a spot more suitable or delightful for the aged servants of the church to spend the evening of the days.

SLAYERS OF DRY AGENT IN JAIL

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 26.—The men who shot and killed Officer J. D. Lambert, Jr., one of the prohibition agents, near Leesburg several days ago, have been arrested and are in jail at Leesburg. There are two white men and two negroes under arrest. The coroner's jury has returned a verdict in which Clarence Costello and Maurice Pool were held for the killing.

Colonel John B. Saunders, attorney general for Virginia, who was in Leesburg attending the funeral, said Thursday that Costello, the man who did the shooting, has admitted that he shot the officer, and the other, Pool, says that Costello was the only one in the party that was armed. The man to whom Costello admitted the shooting says that he did not know that he had killed the officer. Costello was captured at Bluemont and taken to the Leesburg jail. All the men were in custody, and they are being kept in separate cells.

NEW METHOD OF PERPETUAL YOUTH

(By Chicago Tribune Service.)
PARIS, Oct. 26.—Perpetual youth and vitality is guaranteed women by Dr. Jaworski's treatment. Unlike Dr. Serge Voronoff, Dr. Jaworski dispenses with monkey gland grafting, instead transfusing blood in the veins of patients, restoring them to potency and normal, youthful functions.

A woman aged 60 received Dr. Jaworski's treatment last June and recently bore a healthy baby.

Dr. Jaworski, a well known, savant and intimate friend of Mactierlinck, the Belgian author, and Ed. Nelson Wilson, son of J. A. Wilson, who was painfully hurt about the head and face Friday night and was carried to General Hospital, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home on North Main street extension.

Virginia will pay one hundred million dollars in interest at 3% on Thirty Million Dollar Bond Issue.

Not many people in Virginia fully understand the details of the present debt in Virginia.

This debt was originally thirty-odd million dollars and was expended chiefly for roads and canals.

Not a canal and hardly a road so built in service today.

The first bond was issued nearly one hundred years ago, and at the present rate of retirement sixty-eight more years will elapse before the last bond will be paid, a total of 168 years.

Up to this date more than $67,000,000 of interest has been paid, and $30,000,000 more interest must be paid before retirement—a total of $100,000,000 in interest on an original debt of thirty-odd million.

The rate of interest is only 3 per cent. yet three times the amount of the original debt in interest must be paid before retirement.

Bonds issued now would bear 4-1/2 per cent. interest. Today Virginia owes in state bonds over $21,000,000.

figures since, in addition to deducting from the city's total expenses the cost of operating the public utilities there were other deductions to be made—these representing other revenue producing properties.

After the conference this morning Mr. Moss was authorized to give out the statement from Mr. Smyth also the statement of the firm of chartered accountants.

The explanation by the state accountant which was authorized by John Garland Pollard, one of the nine members of the commission on simplification of government is as follows:

"Richard P. Moss, City Auditor, Danville, Va."

"Dear Sir:

"The Commission on Simplification of government, requested me to furnish a statement showing the population of counties and cities of the state and the amount of their disbursements for a fiscal period.

"The treasurer of the city of Danville, reported to the auditor of public accounts that the disbursements passing through his office for the year ending April 30, 1923, were $1,497,196.39. The last U. S. census gives the population of the city of Danville as 21,539.

"The total disbursements as shown above were divided by the population and the per capita disbursement of $69.51 for the year was obtained.

"The statement therefore furnished from this office shows the per capita disbursements by the city treasurer but the figure thus obtained does not represent the per capita operating cost of the city government.

"In arriving at the per capita operating cost of government it would be necessary to analyze thoroughly the total disbursements not representing actual operating expenses.

"Yours very truly,
"R. P. MOSS,
"City Auditor."

The report of the chartered accountant explaining how the per capita government cost figures should be arrived at is as follows:

"Mr. R. P. Moss, City Auditor."

"Dear Sir:

"At your request we have reviewed the finances of the City of Danville, Va., as expressed in printed report prepared by yourself for the purpose of obtaining the per capita cost of city government for the City of Danville, Va., for the fiscal year ending April 30, 1923.

"The method we use of determining this cost in the calculation below is the taking of the total expenditures other than those arising from the sale of bonds and deducting therefrom the revenue resulting from other than taxes. The result is divided by the city population in order to determine the per capita cost.

"It will be noticed that in the above expenditures from bonds for capital outlays are deducted for the reason that there is included in expenditures a contribution to the sinking fund which fund will retire the bonds at maturity. The money resulting from the sale of bonds is not a part of the revenue used in the above method of calculation. We are including in the calculation capital outlay from current revenue as an expenditure. Capital additions are usually financed through bond issues in which event an amount necessary to retire the bonds at maturity and pay the bond interest has to be provided out of taxes each year. In either event it is

Sorry Because Dr. Best Was Not Mentioned

(By The Associated Press.)
BOSTON, Oct. 27.—Telegrams from Dr. F. G. Banting, Canadian physician, who with Dr. J. J. R. MacLeod recently was awarded the Nobel prize for medicine by reason of his discovery of insulin, declare that he is hurt because Dr. Charles H. Best, whom he acknowledges as co-discoverer, was not named in the award. The messages were made public yesterday by Dr. Elliott P. Joelin, speaking at the Harvard Medical school.

"I ascribe to Best an equal share in the discovery of insulin," Dr. Banting's telegram to Dr. Joelin read, "and I am hurt that he is not acknowledged. I will share with him in it always."

The speaker of the evening was Dr. Samuel Newman who by his rich experiences is qualified to speak with authority on the subject chosen for the evening, "Modern Tendencies in the Child Welfare Movement."

Dr. Newman began by sketching in brief outline, the place which the child has occupied in recorded times, from the earliest times down to the present day, drawing his material from the lecture of Professor Bon Bokoy of the University of Budapest.

Dr. Newman classified the child welfare movement into two classes:

1. Those founded on love or pity for the child, as in the case of the work in the Near East.

Those founded on pure reason; that is an appreciation of the child's place in the future economic life of the nation, his role in the national or racial ideal. As an example of this different educational institutions of various religious missions in the Orient, were cited. Towards the end of the 19th century we begin to evaluate the place of the child in society also from economic standpoint.

We begin to realize, however, poor material, heavy burden of taxes. At this point we begin to witness the struggle between the socialistic concept and the individualistic. The individualistic concept wishes to reach the child through the family—the socialistic concept regards him as a national asset or liability. The social view point is rapidly gaining in the U. S. A. This is demonstrated by the school medical inspection.

CHILDHOOD DREAMS MAKE $50,000 A YEAR FOR 24-YEAR-OLD GIRL

MISS CAROLYN NUNDER

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT
NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Dreams of childhood are making $50,000 a year for a 24-year-old girl.

They are making her one of the country's most successful business women with a salary that the president of the country was glad to get 15 years ago.

She feels that she isn't getting ahead fast enough.

"That, I suppose," she says smiling, "is the impatience of youth. But it's in youth that success begins."

"The dreams that we have when we are young are the index to what we should do when we are old. They show where our natural talents lie before we have been warped by educators and dictated to by our elders."

In Miss Nunder's childhood these dreams were of ruffles!

And it has been with ruffles that she has made her success.

"When I was a youngster," she says, "I had a nondescript china doll. I had a nose that looked like a pig's nose had been bumped off and one eye had vanished completely, owing to too many devoted washings. But I loved that doll and tried to make up for its deformities by dressing it prettily. I would trick up its clothes with ruffles, and soon my doll was known as the best dressed doll in the neighborhood."

Then a few years went by and folks said Carolyn was too old to play with dolls. So she started making ruffles for herself. And soon she had the reputation of being the best dressed girl among her friends.

When she was 20 her older sister became ill, and there was danger that her younger sister would have to be taken out of school. Carolyn decided that she was going to help the family out of its difficulties.

But how?

"The answer came in a flash," she says. "Ruffles!"

"I began making clothes for other persons. It was hard going at first. Sometimes I was trying to make seams meet and sometimes I was trying to make ends meet."

Business picked up. Her styles became popular.

Now a little establishment of "Carolyn Nunder, Modiste" on one of the Bowries just off Fifth avenue is a humming place with 15 helpers who are busy all year 'round.

And each is learning by heart their employer's rules for success:

"Follow your dreams of childhood. Create. Do the things you love to do."

Good Morning Judge!

Conley announced that he did not wish to prosecute Law and the warrant was dismissed at payment of costs. The wound sustained by Conley did not result seriously.

The Tangle

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters.

LETTER FROM MISS JOSEPHINE GRAYES HAMILTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

This is the first time, my dear daughter, that I have felt I could sit down and talk to you in the way I usually do in my letters.

Your father has been lying out doors in the porch swing all day. He was able to walk out of the room this morning and seemed quite like himself.

I have not heard from Alice in over a week. Suppose she is very busy getting ready to be presented at court.

Oh, my dear child, when I think of it all it seems like a fairy tale to me. You know, my dear, I had little education and your father even less than I. I don't know that I ever told you, but we spent all the evenings of the first two years after we were married poring over books and trying to learn.

Of course your father is one of the greatest steel men in the country to-day and I believe there is nothing about a steel mill or steel machinery that he does not know. He has learned it all in the hard school of experience and what he could get from books in his evenings.

I was about Alice's age when you were born, dear, and we were so very poor that someone who knew and liked your father in the mills persuaded his wife to send me your layette. I had to be up and around my house a little over a week after you were born, dear, but thank God we both were always well.

I can't pretend to describe to you all the sacrifices and economies that I practiced. I never dreamed that I would be able to give you the splendid education that is yours and certainly I never dreamed that one of my daughters would be presented at England's court.

Your father and I were talking about it the other night and we agreed that all this is a part of the heritage of America. Your father said, "That is the reason—I allowed Leslie to marry a comparatively poor man and why I didn't settle a half million dollars on her at the time of marriage. I believe that every man and woman should be a blessing to themselves. I would not for anything in the world take away from Jack and Leslie the great joy that you and I had of saving and 'making'."

Truly it is a joy Leslie. You will know that when you have lived along far enough to get the right perspective on all the little upheavals of your first years of marriage.

From the tone of your letters lately, dear, I have come to the conclusion that you have been having one of those upheavals now. I do not want to pry into your affairs, but please let me tell you that the first three years of married life are the crucial ones. In them you must really get acquainted with your husband and be with you.

You must adjust yourselves to an entirely different environment and mode of living. Whenever you feel that maybe John is not as fine and splendid as you first imagined, do not forget that he may be having the same disappointment over you.

I intended to write you a newsy letter but instead I am preaching a little. I'll close before I become prosy.

LOVINGLY,
MOTHER.

Reparations Is Of Much Interest To Lloyd George

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—While David Lloyd George, war-time premier of Great Britain devoted today, his second day in Washington, chiefly to pilgrimages to Arlington National Cemetery and Mount Vernon, and to call upon the disabled soldiers at Walter Reed hospital, public questions did not escape his attention. The reparation situation in the light of the slightest developments attracted his interest and he conferred with Secretary Hughes at the latter's home for an hour.

Throughout the day the reparation situation held the interest of the former premier.

Walking from his hotel suite to breakfast with William Jennings Bryan, he remarked to friends that "those are remarkably interesting telegrams between Lord Curzon and Secretary Hughes in the newspapers."

In conferences with newspaper correspondents he spoke hopefully of the situation and indicated that he was the basis of latest advices from Europe he believed a distinct advance had been made toward a solution of the problem. Once an investigation is begun into Germany's capacity to pay, he declared, he would be hopeful of a successful outcome.

There is no necessity of going outside the Versailles treaty in reaching a solution Mr. Lloyd George asserted, adding that if France desired to keep the question within the four corners of the treaty, he saw no objection to such a course.

There would be no substantial difference, he explained, whether the investigation was conducted by an independent commission outside the treaty or by an impartial commission under authority of the reparation commission, so long as the investigating body was composed of business men or experts of proven ability who actually represented the powers and who had the confidence of the world. The moral force of any report presented by such a group, he contended, would give it a momentum that could not be successfully resisted.

At both Arlington and Mount Vernon Mr. Lloyd George paid homage to the memory of America's dead. Accompanied by Secretary Weeks of the War Department he went to the Amphitheatre at the cemetery and baredheaded approach to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier upon which he placed a simple wreath without inscription.

After standing silently a moment he retraced his steps to his automobile and was driven to the mansion which Robert E. Lee left to go to the Civil War, for a brief inspection and a glimpse of the view of Washington.

The former premier then proceeded to Mount Vernon. There after inspecting in detail the home and estate he went to the tomb of George Washington and placed a wreath also without inscription, on the sarcophagus.

Going later in the day into Walter Reed hospital he passed through wards into which were sent patients and at the Red Cross auditorium others speaking in a low voice and with evidence of deep emotion the war-time premier thanked them for their contribution to the freedom of Europe and the freedom of the world.

TRINITY LEAVES FOR UNIVERSITY

(By The Associated Press)
DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 26.—The University of Virginia will have a fighting opponent on its hands tomorrow afternoon when the Trinity College eleven plays its first game with the Old Dominion defenders in 30 years, if the present outlook remains unchanged.

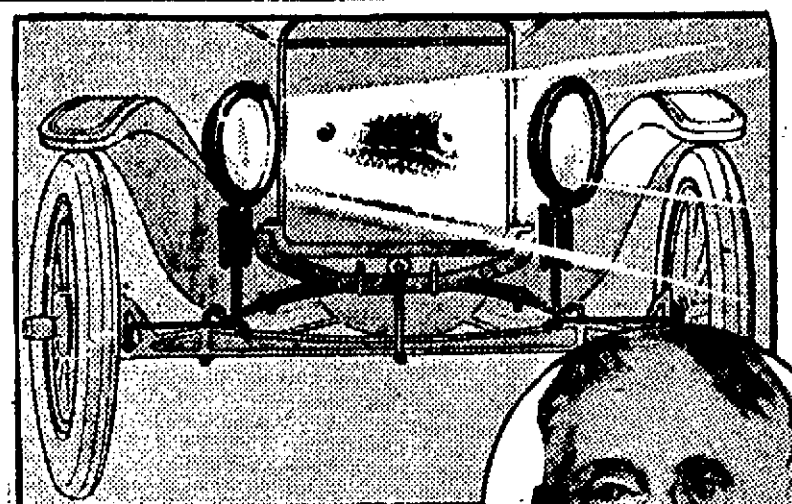

Danville High To Meet Martinsville Here This Evening

The Danville High School football team this afternoon will meet the Martinsville High school team at Stonehill Jackson Park in what is expected to be one of the most interesting and evenly matched tussles of the season. The game will be called at 3:30 p. m. Athletic Director George Heubl announced the lineup this morning and said that he thought it was the best team the High has put in the field this season. He regretted, however, that Cox, one of the tackles is out of the game having cut his hand severely a few days ago. Martinsville recently played Fieldsville and defeated the Carolinians who in turn defeated the Danville High team. The local team has developed punch since that time, however, and by dint of hard practice the local squad expects to give good account of itself this afternoon. The line up is as follows:
Center, Broadus; guards, Perkins and Clark; tackles, Tucker and Wither; ends, Pearson and Dyer; quarter, Franklin; halves, Taylor and Withers; fullback, Wilson.

BLIND, YET HE LIGHTS WAY FOR THOSE WHO SEE

By HARRY B. HUNT
WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Sightless himself, he helps others to see. For J. B. Nicholson, blind inventor of Washington, has perfected what many men with good eyesight have attempted and failed—a simple, practicable automobile headlight that will always cast its rays in the direction the car is moving.

With Nicholson's invention, the light turns as the car turns. You never are driving into a dark wall, with your lights shooting at an angle of 30 degrees from the path in which you are moving. "Equipped with these lights," Nicholson says, "the car looks where it's going and goes where it's looking. I believe they will reduce accidents materially and save many lives. They are a safeguard to pedestrians as well as to motorists." Successful demonstration of the blind inventor's lighting mechanism has been made before Inspector Headley and officers of the police traffic squad here, before the police of Baltimore and a representative of the lighting committee of the Eastern Conference of Automobile Administrators, representing 11 eastern states. That a blind man should be the one to work out successfully a lighting problem on which men with good eyes themselves have failed seems one of the little ironies which Fate sometimes plays on us. Nicholson not only conceived the idea, but he actually made the first detailed drawings of his invention. "It was all easy," he says. "I had it all right up in front of me, in my imagination, like it was on a blackboard. I could see every detail of it—in my mind's eye. Of course in making the drawings I had to work on a large scale, in inches, but that was easy. By measuring my distance from the edge of the paper I could get it all down accurately. The man who made the working drawings said it was the easiest sketch to work from he ever had." Before losing his eyesight, Nicholson was an expert mechanic at the Washington navy yard. His blindness, he says, has accentuated his inventive bent without seriously handicapping him in working out his ideas. "The blindness doesn't bother me," he insists. "I can picture to myself just how everything ought to be just as well as if I could see it." Nicholson is now working on an "exhaust purifier" which he claims will neutralize the poisonous output of the engines now thrown off by automobile engines.

J. B. NICHOLSON AND HIS "TURN-ING" HEADLIGHTS.

Notre Dame Team Confident Despite Weight Of Georgia

(By The Associated Press.)
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 27.—Although his team will be outweighed approximately twelve pounds to the man, Coach Knute Rockne today expressed confidence that the Notre Dame football eleven would triumph this afternoon over Georgia Tech. Fullback Layden and Dash, center, will not be in the Notre Dame lineup today, it was said, because of injuries. Every other member of the squad, however, is declared to be in tip-top condition. Georgia Tech is also said to be in shape. The local even is the favorite.

W. AND R. AND TRINITY ARE READY TO PLAY

TRINITY COLLEGE, DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 26.—Anticipated by the recent defeats at the hands of Carolina and William and Mary, the Trinity Blue Devils are determined to show Virginia, on Saturday, a smooth attacking machine with stronger attack than it possessed in the last two games. Coach Steiner has put his squad through a hard week of practice in preparation for the game, and Trinity is expected to give their old rivals of thirty years ago a lively tussle.

The Trinity line-up will be different from those used in former games this season, due to injuries suffered by several of the varsity players in the Carolina and William and Mary games. Bruce Williams, who started off the season at right tackle is still suffering from a dislocated shoulder, and will not face Virginia. Taylor, all-state guard last year, has been shifted to right tackle, and his position at left guard will be filled by Porter or Ray. Both Porter and Ray are well over the 200-pound class. It is possible that Simons will appear in the line-up at either guard or tackle.

In the backfield Lacerstedt, Trinity's lightning half back who is suffering from a bruised shoulder, will be replaced probably by Culbreth. Fritz Smith, dependable Blue Devil quarterback, is suffering from a wrenched leg but will doubtless be able to start the game Saturday in that position. Several of the other backs are nursing minor injuries, and it is possible that Crute will play his old position at full. Trinity's reserve power, which has been a distinct asset for the Methodists all the year, is fast developing into varsity material.

TIGERS BACKERS TO ATTEND GAME

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 26.—Moral support for the Princeton football team will not be lacking tomorrow when the Tigers faces the Naval Academy in Baltimore. The advance sale has broken all records and the out-of-town attendance will far surpass anything in the past. Probable line-up:

BAPTISTS WIN LEAGUE PENNANT

It was a fine game of baseball between two well matched teams, in which First Baptist showing more hitting power and steadier work in the field, carried off the S. S. A. L. pennant from their game rivals, Shelton Memorial. The game began with a bang, as the last man was out but Skaggs had the upper hand during his time in the box in spite of a sprained foot.

First Baptist was first to score, showing over three runs in the first inning, on one solid hit from Skaggs helped by some errors and loose playing by Shelton, who started the game with a badly mixed lineup. Shelton scored two runs in the second, one in the third and another in the fourth to tie up the First Baptists who had scored another in their half of the fourth, another run for First Baptists in the sixth was followed by one more for Shelton in their half of the seventh. In the eighth First Baptists put the game once by showing over two runs on hits by Filippin, Skaggs and O'Dell. Shelton was unable to get a man on base during the last two innings, due to the excellent work of Skaggs, who struck out three of the last six men to face him.

Mickey Walker pitched fine ball for Shelton having fifteen strikeouts to his credit, but his support failed him badly and quite a few balls that should have easy outs went for hits, due to the uneven ground.

Gravette made a great catch on a drive to right center that looked like a sure hit. Skaggs also made a practice on one solid hit, second and held his position while pitching in great style making several stops and lightning throws to get his man.

REIDSVILLE TO PLAY D. M. I. HERE THIS AFTERNOON

Primed by the victory of its junior team yesterday over Chatham High, D. M. I.'s squad is awaiting the game with Reidsville today in good spirits. The coaches announce that the men have improved considerably in the last week, the teamwork has slickened out, and in the case of defeat they have no alibis.

The probable line-up which will begin the game is as follows: Pulliam and Shautley, ends; Hooper and Bowen, W. tackles; Booker and Eavey, guards; Biggs, center; Biggs, M. quarter; Garden and Wilson, halves; and Gravely, J. fullback. The men are not cocky but they expect to be able to put up the fight of their lives when the whistle sounds at 3:30 today.

TIGERS RUN FINAL SIGNALS

HAMPDEN-SIDNEY, Va., Oct. 26.—The Hampden-Sidney Tigers ran their final signals this afternoon in preparation for the game with Roanoke College tomorrow afternoon. The Tigers are expecting to meet a formidable foe in Oakley, the Roanoke College star halfback. Oakley has shown great stuff in all the games which he has played thus far, and is slated to be the most dangerous man on the Maroon eleven. Bernier's charges are in very good shape, and begin to show some real punch. The game, despite the odds in favor of the mountaineers, should be a sear for the Tigers always show more fight on Death Valley than anywhere else. Since the end positions have been sewed up, the line is greatly strengthened, and will be the mainstay of the Garnet and Gray lads.

This Little World

By MASON DIXON
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27.—New Orleans flappers have discovered a new thrill. Down in the Old French Market there's an institution known as the Morning Call. It's a coffee stand—the oldest coffee stand in the city. Its patrons have long been swarthy, glittering-eyed oystermen, shrimpers, fishermen from the lower coast who bring lugger-loads of seafood to the market, mooring at the wharf nearby—and many of them wear the bawkins, kerchief headdress and the sheath-knives of the traditional seafarer.

The menu is coffee and 'belle calas' doughnuts.

Now, as the social season swings into action, midnight after midnight you can see beautiful debutantes in dinner and dancing frocks, their escorts in evening clothes, perched on little round stools by an ancient marble counter, side by side with men who could be transferred as they stand to take the role of pirates on a musical comedy stage. The flappers set the thrills. The coffee and hot, crisp doughnuts cost 10 cents. The escorts in evening clothes are profoundly thankful.

It was 1895 when the Japanese Satsuma orange was introduced into the United States. Today, in the fruit-growing section around New Orleans, growing Satsumas has become one of the great industries. In the "Florida parishes" of Louisiana, as a certain section is known, dating from ancient Spanish grants, Satsuma orchards stretch for miles. Romance yields to gasoline. In the Old French Quarter of New Orleans, or the Vieux Carre, as the historically accurate call it, the original city founded over 200 years ago, you had to get your gasoline outside in the "American town." Not a filling station had invaded the sacred historical precincts laid out by the Sieur Le Blond de La Tour, engineer of King Louis' armies of France.

But tradition is dead. The first oil and gasoline filling station in the Vieux Carre was opened this past week.

Douglas Fleming, ex-officer, U. S. Army, former engineer of Minneapolis, loves to hunt. The "Beeg"

Swamp back of the Forty Argent Line" on his plantation has many deer. This week a great hunt was organized.

As the hunters were getting off, up the bayou road came one Lucien D'Orsay, aged 85, white-wooled and white-bearded, an old-time slave. A lean hound dog trailed him. Over his bent shoulder was an ancient double-barreled shotgun with hammers. He had come to join the hunt. The "white folks" let him come along. Into the swamp they drove. Presently a shot roared out—one shot. Then the hunters entered on the sound. There stood old Lucien. "Meat in de pot," he called. "White folks, come git yo' meat!" The old dorky, the ancient gun and the lean houn' dawg had delivered.

VIRGINIA HAS FOUR BIG GAMES ON SCHEDULE

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 27.—Four games of more than ordinary importance were in today's schedule in Virginia with V. P. I. and Washington and Lee playing the most important at Lynchburg. A close second in general interest, however, was the Virginia Military Institute and North Carolina State contest at Lexington. Virginia plays Trinity College at Charlottesville.

The Generals have the best of it in weight over the V. P. I. goblies at Lynchburg and although favored to many to win it is predicted by followers of the Gobblers that they will offset this by speedy backfield work. This is the second of the annual big four games, V. M. I. having defeated Virginia a week ago.

The Richmond Spiders are promising to give Billy Laval's Purple Hurricane from Furman College something to think about when they meet here this afternoon. Richmond beat the Greenville team last year after the latter had taken on and defeated all comers but this year Furman and Shaw had faster work and won its game easily. The Spiders, however, declare that there efforts thus far this season should not be taken as indicative of the game they will play against Furman.

North Carolina State and V. M. I. should give the spectators a good contest to look at when they hook up at Lexington this afternoon. Both teams are in good condition, reports say, but the "Flying Cadets" apparently have a little the best of it on comparative records.

Trinity College is expected to give Virginia a tight game at Charlottesville. Randolph-Macon meets William and Mary at Williamsburg.

Tiger-Navy Feud Big Attraction

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 27.—The gridiron feud between Princeton and Navy will be renewed at the stadium here this afternoon after a lapse of year.

The Tigers apparently in splendid condition, arrived in Baltimore yesterday and indulged in a final workout on today's battlefield.

The Navy eleven also put the finishing touches to their preparation yesterday with lengthy drill in signals and formations during which much attention was given to special plays. The middy squad made the trip from Annapolis this morning.

After Princeton's drubbing last week at the hands of Notre Dame, and Navy's defeat by Penn State, both teams are on edge determined that a different tale shall be told when the final whistle blows today.

Football Duels For Today Have Aroused Widespread Interest

News Attendance Records
Are Expected as Best Programs of Season Will Be Offered All Over Country.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A new attendance record for the current gridiron season is expected today when football followers of the East cram the many stadiums and stands to witness the best program thus far offered by college schedule makers.

Gatherings of 50,000 or more are assured for the West Virginia-Pennsylvania game at the Yankee Stadium, the Dartmouth-Harvard game at the Harvard Stadium and the Yale-Brown game at the Yale Bowl, while the attendance upon a dozen other contests involving eastern eleven will closely approach the 50,000 mark, college athletic officials said.

The games mentioned constitute but a small portion of the thrill promising contests of the afternoon. Of equal general interest is Centre's invasion of the North in its game with Pennsylvania at Franklin Field. A hard battle was expected, for the "Praying" Colonels were out to even the count on their four invasions of the North in as many years. Harvard was the previous opponent and won two of the three contests.

The Southern eleven has not been defeated this season while the Red and Blue was beaten 3 to 0 three weeks ago by the University of Maryland.

Today's engagements bring to a close what is probably styled "football week" for in the course of the past six days dispatches from the major centers of eastern schools have been flooded with tales of injuries to outstanding players and assertions that such players will not take the field in today's important tussle.

Charley O'Hearn of Yale; Chuck Calder of Dartmouth; Mike Palm, of Penn State; Frank Ruffa of Princeton; Bart McKee of Navy; Howe, of Harvard; Harold Ward of Boston College and Walter Koppisch of Colunova, are but a few of the more prominent players declared to be physically unfit or scholastically disqualified for play in today's engagements, and their absence cannot affect the play of their teams and the results of the contests.

SOUTH TURNS EYES TO TEAMS TO PLAY NORTH

(By The Associated Press.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 27.—Notre Dame's accomplishments in man handling Army and Princeton turned the eyes of southern football fans today to South Bend where the Irishmen greet the Yellow Jackets from Georgia, in the outstanding game on Dixie's grid calendar.

The Jackets, looming as one of the foremost fighting outfits in the South, will be watched closely in their first grapple with foe men of undoubted strength. Notre Dame's notable victories in the East overshadow the achievements of Tech to date but fans who have witnessed the Jackets' eleventh hour victories on the local grid predict that a garrison finish today may turn the tables on the Irishmen. Tech sent twenty-two men to Notre Dame, auguring swift changes in the lineup to freshen attack and defense.

Five southern conference games and many lesser battles will keep football crowds interested throughout the South today.

Vanderbilt and Tulane open their conference season with a promising looking battle at Nashville, with both eleven anxious to wipe out the sting of defeat at the hands of the same team—University of Texas.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute and Washington and Lee battle at Lynchburg, Virginia, and a game at Lexington, Virginia, brings together V. M. I. and North Carolina State. North Carolina University meets Maryland at the latter's home and Mississippi battles with Tennessee at Memphis.

Other conference teams take on lesser rivals today with more important battles slated for next Saturday.

Centre Meets W. of Pa. For First Time

(By The Associated Press.)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—Centre College and the University of Pennsylvania meet on the gridiron for the first time today at Franklin Field. A hard battle was expected, for the "Praying" Colonels were out to even the count on their four invasions of the North in as many years. Harvard was the previous opponent and won two of the three contests.

The Southern eleven has not been defeated this season while the Red and Blue was beaten 3 to 0 three weeks ago by the University of Maryland.

WELTER STAR IN TWO FIGHTS
BUT HE GETS NO DOUGH

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 27.—As Mr. Potash would say to Mr. Perlmutter: "This business of fighting for nothing is no business."

Jimmy Jones, local welterweight, leading contender for the championship, thinks likewise.

Jones hasn't collected a cent for his last two fights—fights that normally should have netted him at least $15,000.

Jones fought against Mickey Walker, the champion, at Newark, N. J. The bout was unsatisfactory and the commission refused to pay the lads.

More recently Jones fought against Tillie Kid Herman at St. Paul. This bout also failed to please the customers and the officials declined to pay the gladiators.

Two fights No Jack.
Mr. Potash said it.

Yankee Stadium Is Scene of W. Va. and Penn State Fight

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—West Virginia and Penn State clash today in a gridiron struggle of championship proportions at the Yankee stadium. West Virginia has gone undefeated since 1921 and will send its full strength into today's engagement. Penn State, conqueror of the Navy, has suffered the temporary loss of Mike Palm, quarterback and forward passer, and must rely on a comparatively inexperienced field general this afternoon. The lineup:

D. M. I. RESERVES DEFEAT CHATHAM HIGH 1 ST TEAM

Ploughing their way down the field like seasoned veterans, D. M. I.'s Little Cadets found Chatham High an easy mark, and before the final whistle sounded the visiting team though having a strong advantage in weight, was outplayed, outgeneraled and outclassed. Acosta, A. failed to see Chatham's line in his plunging, and Wilkinson, ripped off long gains around the ends. Though Chatham High scored first, it only gave a first impetus to the battle. Biggs, F. broke through and recovered a fumbled ball for a touchdown. T Jones played the strongest game for C. H. S.

The line-ups are as follows:

C. H. S.	Res. D. M. I.
Canada	L. E.
Jones	L. G.
Davis	C.
Wyatt	R. G.
Lynch	R. T.

Substitutions: D. M. I. Reserves, Acosta, A. for Burnette; Burnette for Acosta, O. Time of quarters 12 and 14 minutes.

COACH NEALE UNCERTAIN OF HIS LINE-UP

UNIVERSITY, Va., Oct. 26.—Coach Earle Neale has shifted the Virginia varsity lineup several times during the week in preparation for the Trinity game here Saturday and it is not yet certain which men will start in the game against the North Carolinians.

Thursday afternoon the last scrimmage of the week was held with the first varsity team matched against St. Johns and V. M. I. acted as quarterback with Benny Arnold and Sam Maples in halfback positions and Matt Wilson as fullback.

Henry Foster was general of the second team which Hubbard, Tom McCoy and Bruce Carney in the backfield. Later in the afternoon Coach Neale called Foster and Paul Walp in as halfbacks for the regulars with Carney as fullback with Walter Cameron running the second team.

By shifting the men around in the quarterback and halfback places the varsity seems to be getting more strength for the regulars have been ripping through the second string men and the first year team at will for the first time this season.

The line Joe Baldwin has been shifted from end to guard while Jim Weaver has been moved from guard to tackle. Otherwise the linemen have not been altered.

Trinity is expected to bring a strong team to the field and will give the Orange and Blue an opportunity to test the strength of any changes that may be decided on for tomorrow.

While the varsity play at home Coach Thomas will take the first team to Blacksburg to meet the Virginia Polytechnic Institute freshman eleven.

Frank Chance To Pilot White Sox

(By The Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Frank Chance, manager of the Boston Americans last season, and former pilot of the Chicago Cubs, tonight was selected to succeed "Kid" Gleason as manager of the Chicago White Sox. Chance, famous as the "peerless leader" of the Chicago Cubs some years ago came to terms with Harry Grabner, business manager of the White Sox, during a long distance telephone conference. Chance at his home in Los Angeles, accepted the contract which will run one year. The contract will be signed when the club owners of the American league convene here in December for the annual meeting.

Chance made his name and fortune in baseball, when he won four pennants and two world championships in five seasons. In 1906 Chance piloted the Cubs to the National league championship but lost the world's series to the White Sox. In 1907 and 1908 the Cubs defeated the Tigers for the world's championship and in 1910 the famous machine, then going to pieces, won its last national league flag and was outclassed by the Athletics in the world series. The Athletics won four of five games that fall, the single Chicago victory being scored by pitcher King Cole now here.

The new White Sox pilot, a member of that famous combination—Tinker, Evers to chance, came to the Cubs in 1898 after playing ball at California and at Sullivan, Illinois. For five years he played in the outfield and behind the bat, and in 1903 went to first base where he remained until the end of his playing days.

In 1905, Frank Selee resigned as manager and Chance succeeded him. When Charles W. Murphy acquired the club, a few deals were engineered and the Cubs started on their sensational career. Before the season of 1912 closed, Chance and Murphy came to a parting of the ways. After a bitter fight Murphy scored the decisive blow when he sent his once "peerless leader" to the Cincinnati Cubs for the waiver $1,500. Johnny Evers succeeded Chance but remained only during the 1913 season. The Cincinnati club had no place for Chance, who obtained his release when offered the management of the New York Yankees. The Yankees signed him for three years at a reported salary of $25,000 a year, but before the season of 1914 was over, Chance realizing the hopelessness of his position, resigned and retired to his orange grove at Glendora, California.

From 1914 until last spring, Chance remained out of baseball except for a year with the Los Angeles club. He accepted the management of the Boston Red Sox last winter, but was released before the 1923 season was completed. His contract was only for one year, however, and his release was not due to any dissatisfaction over his work. The Red Sox finished last but Chance holds the distinction of winning sixty one games with the club which is a record number of victories for a last place team.

DANVILLE HIGH WILL HAVE HARD CONTEST TODAY

Nothing but a brief workout was indulged in yesterday by the Danville High school eleven, which met the strong Martinsville aggregation here this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at Stonewall Jackson Park. However, throughout the week the first and second teams have engaged in the brisk scrimmages.

Martinsville has already demonstrated that it has a machine to be feared and Coaches Heuhl and Wilson have been putting forth every endeavor to prepare their charges for the contest.

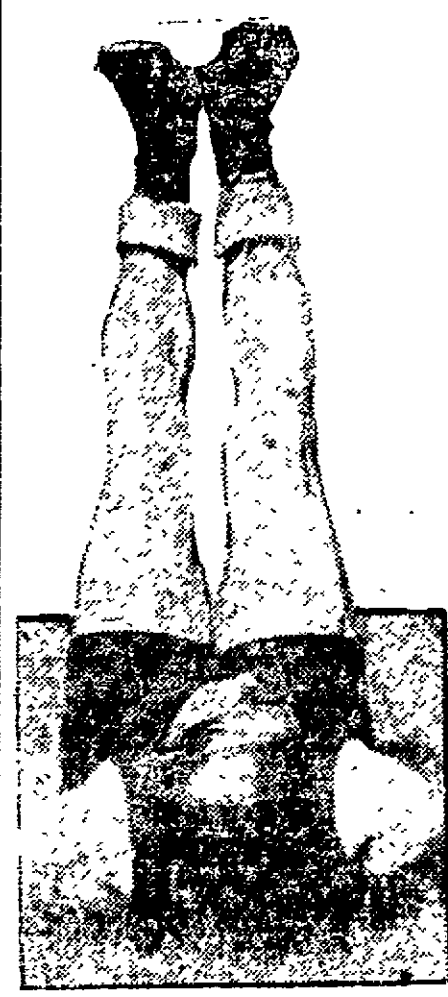

In today's game the local high will be minus the services of Reeves at center. In last Saturday's game he fractured a bone in his wrist and will be out of the game for some time. Broadbent will play center.

The line-up for today's game follows:

Broadbent, c; Perkinson, rf; Clark, lf; Witcher, cf; Tucker, 1b; Dyer, 3b; Pearson, 2b; Franklin, qb; Wilson, 4b; Walters, 5b; Taylor, 6b; Substitutions: Blair, Musserman, Cox, Trundle and Ruffin.

SEVERE RECESSION IN VALUE OF IMPORTS. SEATTLE, Oct. 26.—There has been a severe recession in the value of imports through this port as a result of the Japanese earthquake, especially in silk, dry goods, leather, war, etc. prices and liquor. September's imports fell off $4,558,591, as compared with September 1922. Advice received here from Japan today that by February 1, 1923, that imports of silk, carpets, leather and fur will be practically normal. The goods will be shipped from Kobe. A large accumulation of goods destined for the American holiday trade was destroyed in the Yokohama fire and Pacific coast importing houses will be unable to supply imports and eastern dealers with more than one-third the ordinary amount of such merchandise.

Punching The Time Clock of Beauty

Here are two members of the Greenwich Village Follies who have followed Mr. Ziegfeld's advice when it comes to caring for beauty—Irene Delroy, left, and Ruth Urban, right.

Anna Mae Clift, below, is another Greenwich Village representative. Gilda Gray, right, helps make the "Ziegfeld Follies" famous.

Would You Be Beautiful? Then Don't Neglect Your Beauty for One Hour of the Day; Cultivate it As You Would a Delicate Flower.

By FLORENZ ZIEGFELD, Jr.
Copyright, 1923, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

IF you want to be beautiful, you can't afford ever to abandon the business of being as good-looking as possible.

Beauty's time clock is punched at midnight, and its day is twenty-four hours long. So if you don't feel that it is worth while to keep trying all the time to improve your looks, don't expect to get the best results by just trying when you want to, and giving up the struggle the rest of the time.

After all, it is little more than a matter of habit. You can soon train yourself to use all of your time to advantage, instead of wasting some of it.

Many women, for instance, take time out when they talk. They will spend hours and hours preparing for a luncheon, or a dinner party, or something of that sort. They'll order a new frock, and stand patiently while it is fitted; they'll go to a masseuse and to a hairdresser, and all that kind of thing. They'll arrive at the party looking very stunning, and then they talk, and ruin the whole effect.

Just at the moment when they ought to punch beauty's time clock, they forget to do it.

To be more explicit, they don't know how to manage their mouths. Only a few days ago I saw a girl who was really pretty, begin to talk. Apparently she thought that her mouth was a rubber band, and could be improved by stretching. It was too large, to begin with, and she made no attempt to talk so that its size would be less apparent. That girl should have been made to stand in front of a mirror for ten minutes a day, and talk. Or better still, someone should have made a motion picture of her when she was talking, but didn't know that the picture was being taken.

At least seven out of every ten women make themselves less attractive in appearance when they talk. Their conversation may be brilliant, their voices may be extremely lovely—but they ought to mend their ways or keep still, nevertheless.

It's merely a beauty habit, learning to hold one's mouth well. And it's one worth forming.

Many women are ostrich-like, in thinking that what they don't want people to see is invisible. They arrange their hair beautifully, powder their faces, do many things to make themselves attractive, but discount all their efforts to be beautiful by doing things that make them unattractive.

It seems strange that they will overlook points that are of the utmost importance, that could quite easily be improved. I believe that education in such matters is quite as essential as is the multiplication table. Looking at a girl, you can't tell whether or not she knows what twelve times twelve is, but you can tell whether she holds her head so that the line of her throat is good, or whether she sinks her chin so that it's not only doubled, but trebled. She may have powdered that chin beautifully; she doesn't know that that is only half of what she needs to do.

A Few Beauty Habits

Too many women are under the impression that beauty grows like a weed. It doesn't. It grows like a plant, that has good care. You wouldn't buy a valuable rose bush and then just stick it in the earth and go away and forget it, and later expect it to bear wonderful flowers. You'd look after it—see that it was watered, that no weeds grew around it, that rose bugs did not devour its buds.

Well, beauty needs just that much care, and more.

If you want to be beautiful you've got to form the habit of sitting well. I've seen girls who stood beautifully, go over to a chair and slump down in it in a way that ruined their figures. They folded up in the middle like an accordion.

Form the habit of sitting well—not too straight, but with your shoulders held properly. If you don't want to have a double chin, don't let your head sink down into your neck; hold it up, so that you'll have a good throat line.

Even when you are very tired, you will find that you can rest when you are sitting properly; you can relax, and not lose everything you've gained by exercising for hours to improve your figure.

No good bookkeeper would work all day to balance his books and then at night tear up his day's work. Yet if you allow yourself to be a half-time beauty, if you make your day an eight-hour one, you are likely to destroy what you have gained.

Form the habit of being rested when you eat or sleep. Don't go to luncheon so worn out that your food won't be properly digested; take five minutes in which to rest before you eat. Even the busiest man or woman can do this; better five minutes of relaxation and a glass of milk, than ten minutes devoted to bolting more food—not that ten minutes is ever enough for any meal!

You can rest by just relaxing, mentally and physically. It isn't necessary to sit down to do it. I once knew a man who had an amazing amount of vitality and did a remarkable amount of work, who rested in the subway in New York during the rush hour.

If you've ever ridden in the subway at six o'clock you know what "the rush hour" means. I've seen people all but kicked into the car. You hardly know whether you are standing on your own feet or on those belonging to somebody else.

Yet this man got a fifteen minutes' rest under those conditions.

"First of all, I relax my mind," he told me. "I refuse to think of the people jammed close all about me. I try to think of nothing at all. If I can't do that, I think of something pleasant, something that I like to look at."

"Then I relax my body. That's a little difficult if I'm standing, clinging to a strap, or trying to keep my balance with no strap to cling to, but it can be done. Just let your weight settle; don't try to hold it up. Don't let your body sag, but just don't hold it tense."

"You'll find that by ceasing to struggle against uncomfortable conditions and forgetting them, you can really rest."

If you'll form the habit of resting that way before meals, your food will do you twice as much good as it will if you sit down at the table exhausted.

Going to bed tired is the worst sort of habit. Try to go to bed rested, so that your night's sleep will really banish the fatigue of the day. Mild exercise will rest you, reading a bit will take your mind off your fatigue, and make you feel better. Drinking a glass of hot milk is a good before-bed-time habit. Experiment until you find the best way of getting rested enough to go to sleep.

Clothes and the Time Clock

If you are going to be beautiful, your clothes must be working for you every moment that you wear them.

The woman who wears clothes that are uncomfortable is putting a huge stumbling block in the path of her own beauty.

Yet from the beginning of time women have done that very thing. No doubt they will continue to do it. Someone tells them that something is fashionable—a certain line, a certain curve, which can be attained only by sacrificing their comfort. And they'll attain that line or curve, or something as near to it as possible, no matter what difficulties and discomfort are entailed.

Within the memory of a good many of us, it was fashionable to have a wasp-waist. The tortures said to be suffered by the dammed were nothing compared to those which must have been endured by the tightly corseted women who managed to smile despite the vises that enclosed their bodies.

Nowadays, luckily, the corset is a thing of the past. We hear much of the good sense that has banished it.

But—something else has taken its place. The brassiere that is too tight has supplanted it.

Needless to say, the girls of the "Follies" do not belong to the ranks of those who follow the flag of fashion when it leads to such senseless practices. If dress reform means dressing with common sense, as I believe it does, every girl in the "Follies" belongs in the ranks of the dress reformists.

Don't Forget That You're Beautiful

One of the biggest mistakes that the would-be beauty makes is forgetting to keep her mind in line.

She is likely to think that she wants to be beautiful, instead of that she is beautiful.

As I have said before, the woman who knows that she is beautiful acts as if she were. She is buoyed up by the knowledge; she fits the role that she wants to play.

If your mind doesn't punch the time clock, you'll be shirking the business of beauty. A beautiful girl who is on the stage can't afford to let herself slump; well, neither can you. Pretend that the eyes of the multitude are upon you, all the time—then your beauty will work all the time, instead of just occasionally.

Don't Underestimate Yourself

Not long ago I overheard two women talking. They sat behind me in my own theater. And they were envying some of the girls in the "Follies."

"Isn't she beautiful? Isn't she lovely?"

"Oh, and look at that one, who's just coming on. What a gorgeous costume—but then, she can wear it; she has such a pretty figure."

On the way out of the theater I saw them. They were not more than twenty-five years old, either of them. But they had taken none that mature, settled-down look that so many young women allow themselves to acquire.

Either of them could have worn the costume they had admired on the stage, if she had been willing to work as hard, right straight along, to have a good figure as the girl on the stage worked. Either of them could have been many times as attractive as she was, if she'd been willing to try to be. But they had just leaned back comfortably, eaten too much, not exercised enough, let their minds grow sluggish.

Don't just envy the beautiful girls who are selected for such productions as mine. Find out what will make you more beautiful, and then work hard to benefit by the knowledge.

Punch beauty's time clock every day—and you'll never regret it!

MORNING STOCK LETTER

Thomson & McKinnon

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—What may prove the greatest international event
since the Armistice was signed met with no response in the stock market.
Why? Because the bearish market factors at present have such a grip on the mind of the investor
and trader that whatever is favorable is brushed aside. Law abiding citizens will, until given material
reasons, join a mob for some illegal
purpose and regret it the next day.

The funniest pastime around Wall Street is playing with what they call
"averages" picking out 50 or 100
stocks and making believe that it's the market. Averages wouldn't help a fellow that was long Island Oil during last Spring's boom or who is now
short Can or May Department stores
or some other stock of similar standing. Of course, if everybody is going to accomplish something even with the good ones. But, as sure as living,
they will pay a fearful penalty one of these days.

MORNING COTTON LETTER

Thomson & McKinnon

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Around
the 31 cents level there was a disposition by bulls to accept profits and they were assisted by the fact that the market down. The reaction was natural and puts the market in a healthy condition. Think if shorts try to cover they will have to pay the seller. Eventually look for higher prices and think that cotton bought
on the breaks will pay handsome profits.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27.—Weekend liquidation of long contracts put
the cotton market down on the opening today but soon after the opening,
the weather accounts in the western territory put it back up. The initial losses amounted from 15 to 21 points
while at the end of the first half hour
of business prices were one down to six up, compared with the last sales of yesterday.

December traded down to 29.98 and then up to 29.78 points in west and north Texas and in Oklahoma told of much rain falling and some of the reports that the outlook seemed to be for a wet freeze.

Special Program.

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Navy
Day and the anniversary of the birth of President Roosevelt are being jointly observed today throughout the United States.

Under the comprehensive program
which has been arranged, the history and purport of the United States is being carried to sections which, because of geographical location, have never view the battle fleet, while available ships are concentrated in seaports for elaborate exercises and for the courtesies of "visitors day."

Monuments of American Naval heroes and of outstanding figures in the naval histories of the principal Latin-American countries will be decorated by representatives of the league and fitting tribute paid to the carefully preserved relics of earlier
eras in the life of the United States Navy.

Secretary Denby was the principal speaker at the ceremony arranged
here at the foot of the statue to John Paul Jones in Potomac Park. A guard of honor comprised 300 marines and 100 sailors was selected to attend the ceremonies.

Secretary in the vicinity of the Hampton Roads fleet base are combining their programs which will center on board the battleship West Virginia, last first class ship to be added to the navy until 1924 and possibly for all time.

Naval air forces were assigned a leading part in the days observance.
The "cruiser" Shenandoah was prepared for a long swing through the valley which gave her name; an air carnival was arranged at Charleston, S. C., and planes of all types were gathered to participate in a battling at Portsmouth, N. H., Boston, Newport, Brooklyn, Norfolk, Pennsylvania, New Orleans, San Diego, San Francisco, Bremerton and the outlying naval stations where elements
of the fleet are concentrated.

The longest "Navy Day" is being observed by Chester Pennsylvania. It began last Monday was marked by the visit of the destroyer Childs to that city.

Today was set aside formally as Navy Day at the Texas state fair and similar action is reported unofficially
from six other state committees.

Naval members of the American Legion are co-operating in the observance in scores of cities.

WILL PRESENT SILVER CUPS
TO CRUISER, RICHMOND

(By The Associated Press.)

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 27.—
The presentation of a silver cup to the cruiser Richmond and the rededication of the old battleship Virginia's silver service aboard the cruiser this afternoon featured the Navy Day exercises here. The presentation will take place this afternoon, the speakers being Lieutenant Governor J. E. West and Mayor
Alvinson of Richmond.

The Richmond, the destroyer Osborne and the battleship West Virginia will be thrown open today to visitors. Captain T. J. Senn, commanding officer of the West Virginia,
Hon. L. Ferguson, and General
W. R. Smith, will speak at noon today from the quarter deck of the West Virginia. Music will be furnished by a band from Fort Monroe and planes from Langley Field and the Hampton Roads Naval Base will circle overhead.

The plant of the Newport News
Shipbuilding and Drydock Company will be thrown open to visitors during noon hours.

A formation of six planes passed over this city early today. They are en route to Richmond but will return here in time for the ceremonies
aboard the Richmond.

The Richmond, her officers say,
demonstrated on her 18,000 miles
shake down cruise that the turbine powered craft is more efficient and more economical than the electrically driven craft. This has been a much mooted question in the Navy for the past six or eight years.

The Richmond carries more horsepower than any other warship in the world and has the largest cruising radius of any craft in the American Navy if not in the world. She was built in Philadelphia and commissioned a few months ago.

The cruiser is named after the old Richmond, which was commissioned in 1862 and which saw service with Farragut at Mobile Bay.

Warships of the scouting squadron,
formerly the Atlantic fleet are in Hampton Roads for the Navy Day celebration. Some of the ships have been sent to New York and Philadelphia, but the greater part of the fleet is anchored in Hampton Roads.
Sailors from the fleet say they have hung up some new records in the target practice, which has been underway at the southern drill grounds,
for the past two weeks. But the of-

Reactionary Tone
In Stock Prices

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Stock
prices demonstrated a reactionary tone in this week's markets, the industrial average breaking through to a new low level for the year. Pivotal stocks held relatively firm all week,
the selling pressure being concentrated in the rubbers, leathers co-ops and various specialties. Public interest was again at low ebb, the daily transactions averaging about half a million shares with professional traders
providing the large bulk of business.

The foreign exchanges were busy
in the early part of the week but a sharp recovery set in later on reparations news.

Nearly all the copper shares broke
below their previous resistance points to new 1923 lows. Rubbers and leathers also were affected by adverse trade conditions.

Cotton prices jumped to new high levels, spot and December contracts getting above 31 cents a pound and the other near months above 30 cents.

Wall Street heard reports that the head of the Soviet textile trust was on his way here to make cotton purchases.

Money rates eased slightly, considerable more time money being available at five per cent. for maturities
of one to three months. Longer dates commanded 5-14 per cent. which was the ruling rate for prime commercial paper.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The cotton market was barely steady during today's early trading. There appeared to be a good deal of reactionary sentiment following the advances of the earlier week. The opening was barely steady at a decline of 7 to 155 points
on present crop positions and 36 to 38 points lower on later months. After selling off to 30.48 however, December rallied to 30.64 while March stiffened up from 29.89 to 30.00 and prices held within seven or eight points of last night's closing quotations during the first hour.
